Where will you be for the holidays?

To counterbalance the abundance of December, I am heading to Lanserhof Tegernsee, in the Bavarian Alps, to embark on a seven-day detox programme. It's the best I've found – and I've done my research.

What do you do there?

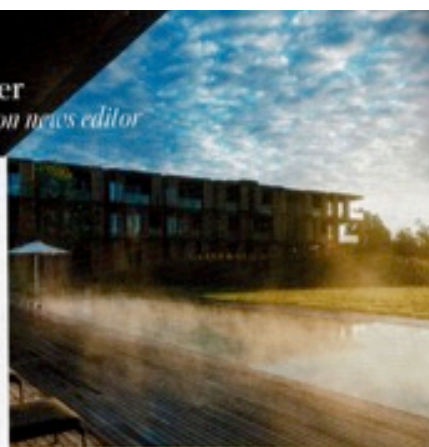

Overseen by a specialist doctor, I take advantage of every treatment going; from daily shiatsu to intravenous vitamin drips. Food is scant (in accordance with the Mayr method, which revolves around giving your digestive system a break), but massages are plentiful. It seems like a fair trade.

What will you be packing?

I am obsessed with the dressing gown Craig Green has designed for London's Standard Hotel and, as the significant majority of my week will be spent wearing one, it's definitely a worthy investment. A cashmere tracksuit feels equally essential – and then a wealth of beauty products to apply in front of Netflix during the evenings.

How are you spending New Year's Eve?

Having dinner at the home of one of my best friends, likely getting my money's worth out of the tracksuit.

WHAT DO YOU WANT FOR CHRISTMAS?

A ceramic Hermès tray – the best bedside-table accessory in the world.

Clockwise from left: camera, £4,375, Leica. Bag, £2,131, Delvaux. Earrings, £235, Vanda Jacintho. Swimsuit, from £190, Leslie Amon. Below left: ring, price on request, Tiffany

WHAT DO YOU WANT FOR CHRISTMAS?

A Leica camera, because my phone will be tucked away for some quality digital detoxing. And diamonds, of course.

Where will you be for the holidays?

With my friends and family at the Geejam Hotel in the foothills of the Blue Mountains near Port Antonio. Everything about Jamaica over the holidays is fresh, fun and full of flavour.

What are you looking forward to?

Its newly renovated Bushbar is an amazing place to catch performances by talented local musicians and surprise sets by music legends. Home to state-of-the-art studios, where some of the industry's most iconic artists have recorded, it's the perfect place to embrace Jamaica's creative roots.

What's your holiday-packing style?

Plenty of swimsuits that can double as tops, from my go-to swimwear designers Leslie Amon and Talia Collins. Easy, colourful dresses from La DoubleJ and, a new favourite, Sika. In addition to the local treasures I always pick up, I'll be accessorising with my raffia Delvaux bag, Manolo Blahnik sandals and Dior headscarf.
